Quiz on PHP Data Types

1. What is a scalar data type in PHP?

A. Array

B. String

C. Object

D. Resource

Answer (B): String
A scalar data type represents a single value, such as strings, integers, floats, and booleans.

2. Which of the following is NOT a data type in PHP?

A. Integer

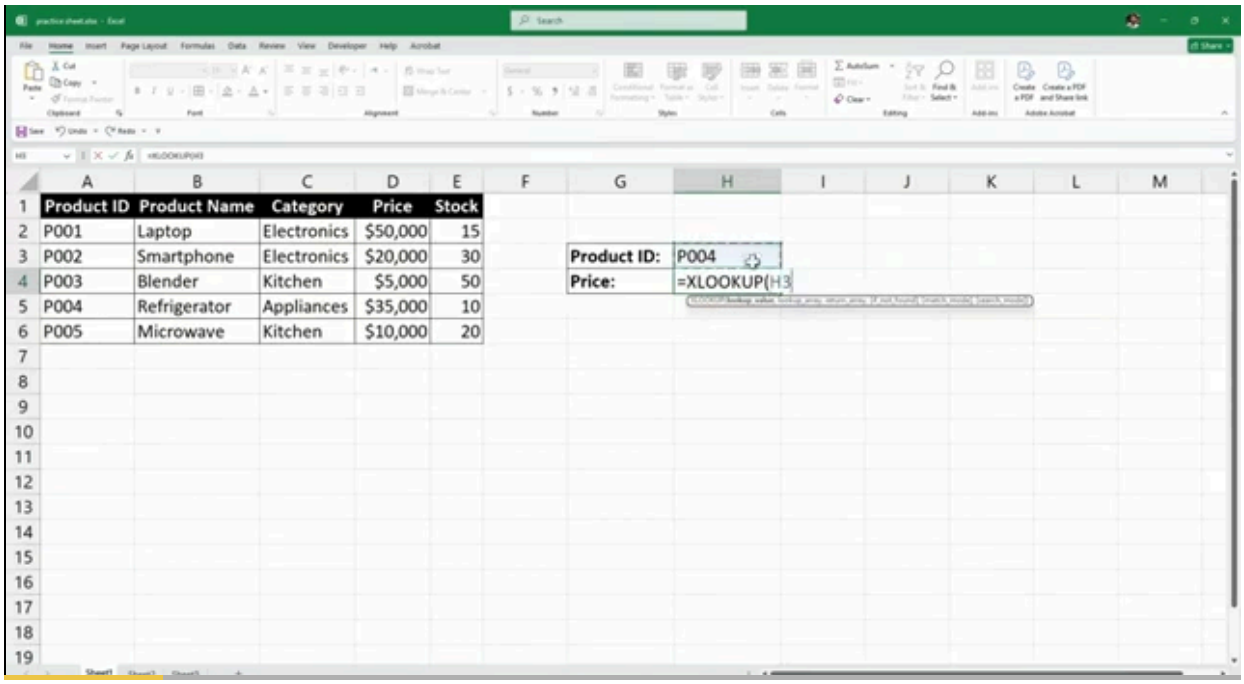
B. Float

C. Character

D. Boolean

Answer (C): Character
PHP does not have a character data type; characters are treated as strings.

Advertisement



3. What keyword is used in PHP to declare an array?

A. array()

B. new Array()

C. arr()

D. list()

4. Which of the following statements about objects in PHP is true?

A. Objects are a type of scalar

B. Objects can only hold string values

C. Objects are instances of classes

D. Objects cannot store multiple values

Answer (C): Objects are instances of classes

In PHP, objects are instances of classes and can contain multiple properties and methods.

5. What is the purpose of the NULL data type in PHP?

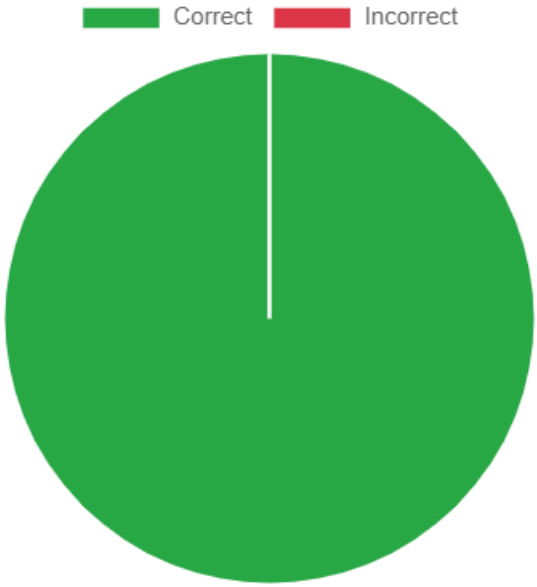
A. To represent a variable with no value

B. To represent a boolean false

C. To store an integer

D. To define a constant

You scored 5 out of 5!



Print Page

Submit

Review